

Yale Institute
for
BIOSPHERIC STUDIES

In memory of Gaylor Donnelley, a conservationist dedicated to advances in research and education, and funded by an endowment from the Gaylor and Dorothy Donnelley Foundation and the Donnelley Family

2022 Call for Nominations for Gaylor Donnelley Postdoctoral Environmental Fellowships

ELIGIBILITY

- Individuals who have been awarded the PhD degree within the past three years, or who are soon to be awarded the PhD degree, are eligible for nomination.
- Please note: Yale PhD graduates and individuals already in residence at Yale are not eligible.

DISCIPLINES & FACULTY SPONSORS

- The Donnelley Postdoctoral Environmental Fellowship award supports research in environmental sciences.
- Fellows work under the mentorship of a Yale faculty member.
- The Yale faculty member provides office and lab space, and research funds beyond the award's contingency fund.

AWARD

- The fellowship term is two years, without possibility of renewal. There is opportunity to teach a seminar course in the individual's area of specialization.
- Annual compensation is $62,000 plus fringe benefits, and $10,000 in contingency funds.

NOMINATION PROCESS

- Nominations must be made by a Yale faculty member, who must affirm that they will act as mentor and provide research infrastructure for the nominee if selected; direct applications are not accepted.
- The nomination letter must:
 - Describe how the faculty member knows the nominee.
 - Detail why the nominee is worthy of consideration and what makes him or her an outstanding candidate.
 - Explain how the nominee's proposed research is innovative, and how and why it will complement the work of the faculty member's research group.
 - List the research facilities and equipment accessible to the nominee.
 - Explain how the nominee's proposed research and outreach will contribute to enhancing diversity, equity, and inclusiveness.
- Nominations are limited to one per faculty member.
- Submit the nomination letter online as PDF at:

yibs.yale.edu/donnelley-nomination-form-2022

- Nominees are asked to provide the following in PDF at:

yibs.yale.edu/donnelley-application-form-2022

- A two-page proposal describing research, outreach, and any contributions to enhancing diversity, equity, and inclusion.
- A curriculum vitae with a complete bibliography.
- Three letters of recommendation.
- The manuscript or reprint of one published work.

DEADLINES

- Faculty nominations are due Friday, September 23, 2022.
- Nominee's application materials are due Friday, November 18, 2022.
- Awards will be announced on or before December 16, 2022. Fellows will begin residency at Yale University on a date negotiated with their faculty sponsors, starting on or after July 1, 2023.

For any questions or concerns regarding the application process, contact:
Timothy Sandrey at timothy.sandrey@yale.edu +1 (203) 436-2301